

We create magic in ink as well as pixels.

Yes, we're best known for our web work, but we also design for that infernal analog beast – the printing press. Most of us at CTD have been kicking around the design world for longer than we'll admit to on camera, but just between you and us, we have folks on our team with nearly 20 years of experience designing, writing, photographing, illustrating, and producing media packaging, print advertising, and marketing collateral.

Many of our clients benefit from the fact that we can both produce web sites and support them with printed marketing collateral. Utilizing the same creative resources for both often saves time and always assures that your marketing message and brand guidelines receive cross-media optimization and support.

So call on us for all your design needs – web and print. Our creative team may be pixel-savvy, but they still have ink in their veins.

OnLink® Technologies:

After interpreting and optimizing OnLink's brand for the web, CTD extended the brand to the print medium and implement a 2nd-generation marketing message.

Hewlett-Packard Credit Union:

CTD created a new look and feel for a marketing collateral series that was easily implemented across print and web media.
